Possible training about a hands-on project/service learning opportunity that benefits ERD.

I watched a webinar by Episcopal Relief and Development a year ago about their response to the hurricanes in 2017 about it. I watch webinars for my work and find this a convenient and informative method, particularly if they are recorded.

The new 5 minute video from Episcopal Relief and Development is also very good and I plan to include the link in our Sunday

Lenten Coupon Books from ERD with small quips "Did you know?"

What are one or two things you'll commit to regarding your ministry with Episcopal Relief & Development this year? I hope to lift up this organization along with LWR on the ERD March Sunday, and when disasters happen, make contributions. For our staff gift exchange this past year, we each donated the amount that we would have spent on gifts to ERD. Very amazing to see how far our money could go. I plan to make more use of the Gifts for Life catalog and the Matching Gifts program. ERD awareness for congregations, distribution and dissemination of material and resources such as mite boxes and Tuesday Pancake Supper.

Write more articles about work of Episcopal Relief and Development to inform congregation throughout the year, I provide a poster with current resources and information about ERD; provide Hope chests and remind our parishioners annually to ERD as another outreach of our church; have taken surveys that show most of our parishioners would like designated support programs and where to send their donations.

What are one or two things you'll commit to regarding your ministry with Episcopal Relief & Development this year?

I hope to lift up this organization along with LWR on the ERD March Sunday, and when disasters happen, make congregational members aware of giving opportunities.

For our staff gift exchange this past year, we each donated the amount that we would have spent on gifts to ERD.

We did this as part of the matching gift campaign, and it was amazing to see how far our money could go.

I plan to make more use of the Gifts for Life catalog and the Matching Gift campaign this year.

ERD awareness for congregations, distribution and dissemination of material and resources such as mite boxes and fundraising info especially during Lent starting with Shrove Tuesday Pancake Supper.

Write more articles about work of Episcopal Relief and Development to inform congregation throughout the year, not just at Lent.

I provide a poster with current resources and information about ERD; provide Hope chests and remind our parishioners to drop in change;
encourage our vestry to donate annually to ERD as another outreach of our church;
have taken surveys that show most of our parishioners would rather support crisis in the US, thus I remind them ERD has designated support programs and where to send their donations.
